Virtual Field Trips

Field trips have long been a way for children to become engaged in learning through fun, but with closures around the world, in-person visits haven't been a possibility for quite some time. As field trips and play dates turn virtual, that's where we can help, offering this handy guide for at-home learning through virtual visits to all of your favorite places around the world.

Science and Technology

Zoos and aquariums

Enjoy the opportunity to explore all different kinds of animal species through a variety of different virtual field trips available at both local and international zoos and aquariums with experienced, professional guides and fun interactive activities.

National Aquarium

The entire museum is now online for virtual tours with a handy map tool to help you move between exhibits. There's a one-hour tour option that brings you up close and personal with an ambassador animal and a guided activity. If you prefer to map out your own personal adventure, the National Aquarium offers its Custom Virtual Program, complete with personalized video messages and live virtual tours.

Houston Zoo

The Houston Zoo offers custom programs for both individual and group learning. You connect with the zoo using the Zoom platform to be treated to a live zoo tour that is hosted by a Houston Zoo educator. There are several programs to choose from, depending on how many exhibits you want to visit. You can choose visits with specific animals, such as an Asian elephant herd, big cats, great apes, farm animals and animals of the Texas Wetlands.

Australia Zoo

Located on the Sunshine Coast in Queensland, Australia, it is the self-proclaimed home of the Crocodile Hunter. Enjoy a self-guided virtual field trip that uses a series of YouTube videos to take you through the zoo's most exciting exhibits. It's also an opportunity to see your virtual hosts, Terri Irwin and her children, Robert and Bindi, as they continue their father's, Steve Irwin, legacy.

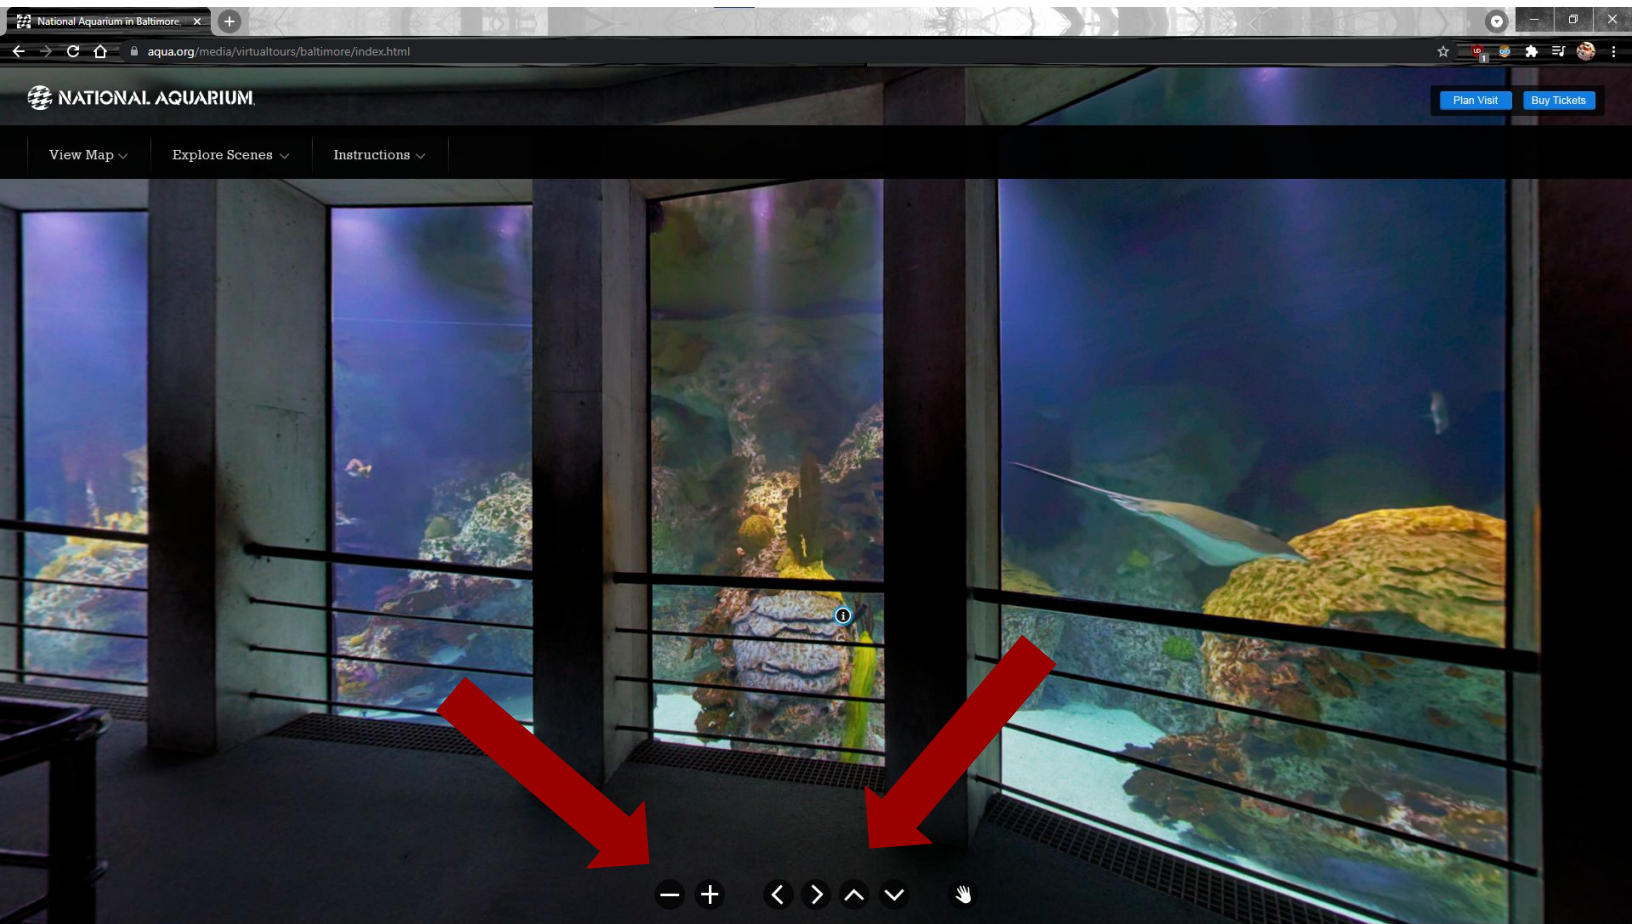

Georgia Aquarium

Located in Atlanta, the Georgia Aquarium offers access to live webcams, so you can regularly check in to see new animals or visit a favorite one. Visitors will have the option to see animals like beluga whales, sea otters, sea lions, piranhas and African penguins. Also in town is the Zoo Atlanta, which offers a "Panda Cam" live stream that lets you check in on the local giant panda twins, Ya Lun and Xi Lun.

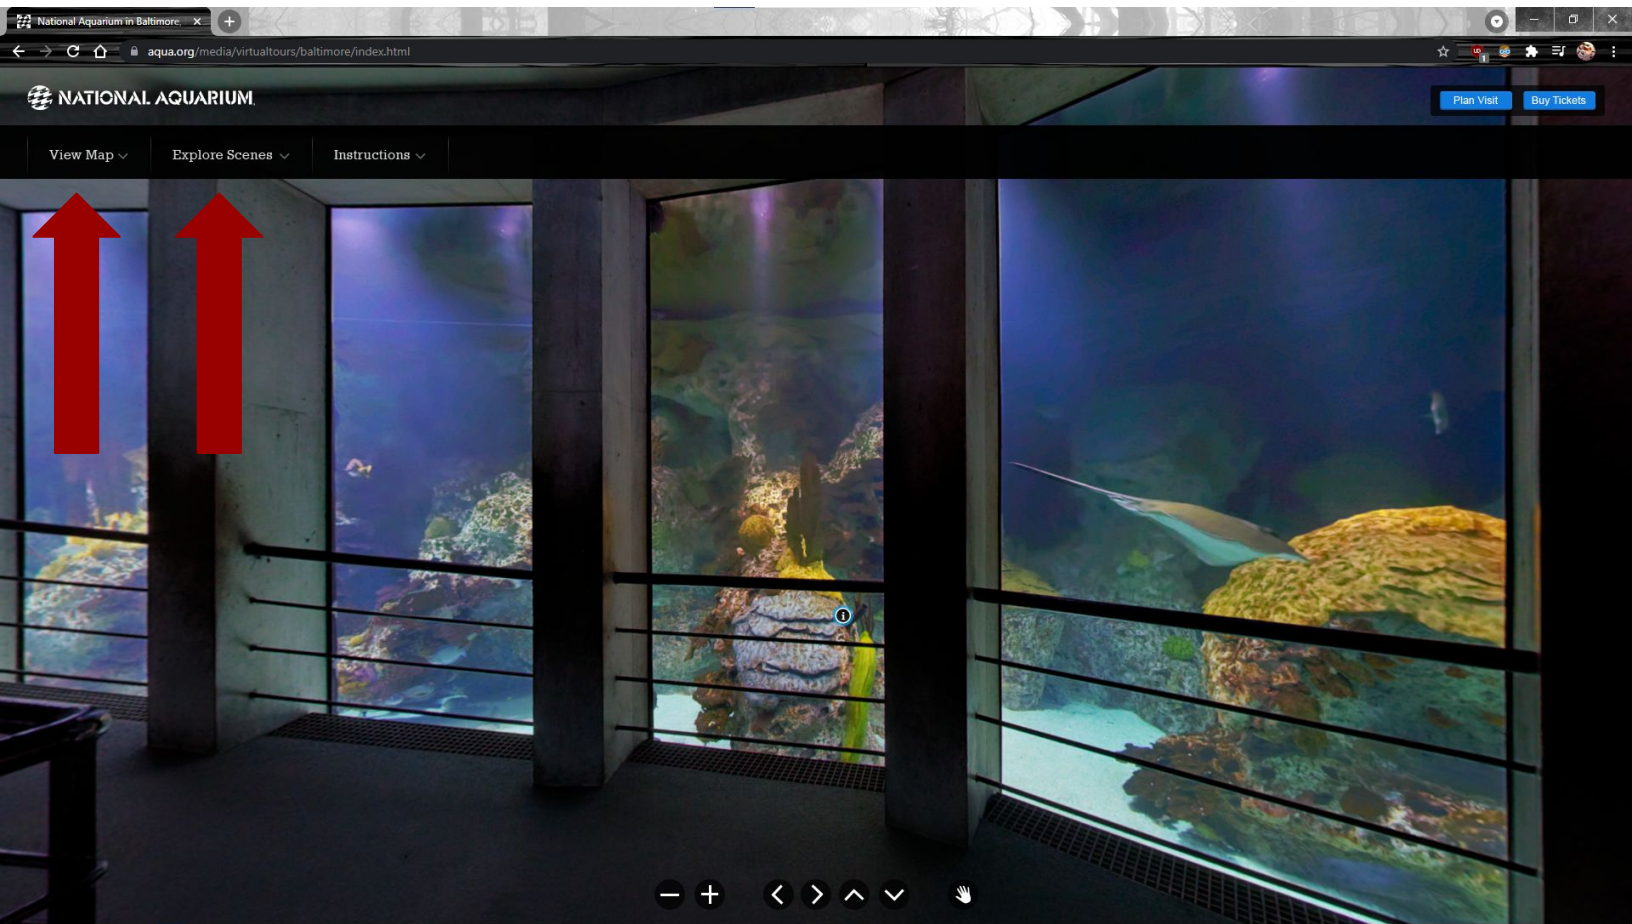

Monterey Bay Aquarium
